OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

The Resignation of Mr. Crow Baker—How the Matter is Viewed Here.

Mr. Earle's Candidature—Judge Bole's Visit to Ottawa—General Topics.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 7.—As I wired the TIMES a few days ago, the resignation of Mr. Baker, M. P., Victoria, has been received by the Speaker of the House of Commons. This was the only course open to Mr. Baker, although he should have done so sooner, and not permitted the constituency to be disfranchised even for one single session of parliament. The government organs here support the candidature of Mr. Thomas Earle, and therefore, it is understood, that he is pledged to support the administration. That is how it is looked at from this distance of the scene of action. If this be so, then nothing can be gained by the resignation of Mr. Baker. His protest against the government, whether instigated in the first place by personal or public motives, was nevertheless a condemnation of the government's policy towards Victoria principally, and British Columbia generally. How the people of the Pacific slope can expect to get their grievances redressed at Ottawa by persisting to select servile followers of a government instead of independent men it is difficult to see. Certainly that is a unique procedure which other provinces will permit yours to enjoy a monopoly of. If the province had one persistent supporter, who bore no political allegiance to or against the government, then Hon. G. E. Foster would be compelled to answer such questions as to whether the Pacific steamers were going to stop at or give the go-by to Victoria, instead of sitting in his seat and ignoring the interrogations. Sir Adolphe Caron would require to give a better reason for his neglect of departmental business in Victoria, and Hon. John Haggart would not endeavor to make up all his deficit purely by reducing the salaries and provisional allowances of his employees in British Columbia. The seizures in Behring sea, the fishery question—which so far has been allowed to be discussed in parliament by representatives from the Atlantic Coast, and a few of the leaders in the House—and other important matters affecting your province would all be forced upon the attention of ministers. No matter how well-meaning any government might be towards any section of the country, as long as the representatives from these parts are luke-warm in their devotion to the people's interests, and more attached to their own personal ends, then the public affairs of those interested will certainly be neglected. The people of Victoria have now the opportunity of electing a candidate to press their unattended claims upon the government—not to give their trust to any man who will give a certain administration a servile support, generally called "an independent support," until the election is ensured. The jaunty figure of Mr. Baker will be missed in the corridors of the Commons and at other social gatherings here during the session time, but his absence in the House will in no way detract from the deliberations of Parliament or operate injuriously to his late constituency, whoever his successor may be. If his constituents choose they may profit by the change.

JUDGE BOLE.

While on his way to Ottawa, Mr. Bole, M.P.P., New Westminster, received the intelligence through the press that he was appointed a county judge, but not until his arrival here was he made aware of the appointment officially. During his brief stay in Ottawa, before going further east, he was cordially received by all the leading citizens and his genial and affable manner found for him many friends. He visited all the departments and conversed freely with most of the ministers—all who were then in the city. It was his first visit to Ottawa, and I have his own word for it that he enjoyed it immensely. He never tires enumerating the great capabilities, splendid natural advantages and immense resources of British Columbia.

CANADA AND AUSTRALIA.

Mr. W. McIlwraith, Melbourne, and a well known Australian journalist, is at present in the city on his way home from England by the Canadian Pacific Railway. He carries with him letters of introduction to Sir John A. Macdonald and other cabinet ministers from Sir Charles Tupper. While here and at other points in Canada he will make inquiries into better trade relations between this colony and the Antipodes. With the Premier Mr. McIlwraith had a long conversation respecting the proposed Pacific cable and mail service, matters which will certainly come up before the Canadian-Australian conference for consideration when it does take place. Of both schemes Mr. McIlwraith speaks highly. In reply to the question relative to the exchange of products between both countries, he said: "If we could get labor cheap enough we could send Canada sugar. Our great export is wool. In 1887 Queensland exported clean wool to the value of £1,060,712, greasy wool £1,307,999. We could take from Canada, agricultural implements, boots and shoes, cuff, cheese, haberdashery, salmon, dried fish, etc. In 1886 we imported boots and shoes to the value of £196,328, of which £81,000 was from the United Kingdom, and £107,000 from New South Wales, whose merchants acted as middlemen for houses on the continent. We imported chaff £18,000, cheese £31,000, haberdashery £401,741, salmon £10,567, furniture £48,000. We have plenty of capital but it goes into mining, etc., which is considered more profitable than manufacturing." "What about reciprocity?" "I think it likely the subject of reciprocity in tariff will be discussed at the conference next spring. I believe our people are in favor of relations with Canada in every way possible. For my own part I think it would be advantageous to both countries.

DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS.

Several months ago I predicted that the Hon. Mr. Chapleau would not get the portfolio of railways and canals and that it was more than possible, to avoid any eruption in the cabinet through the appointment of an outsider, that Sir John A. Macdonald would take hold of the department himself. Although it has not been officially announced that he has done so, there is no doubt that he is acting in that capacity. In this case there is not likely to be any appointment for some time to come, certainly not before the next session of parliament.

NOTES.

The discharge of 75 printers from the government printing bureau has caused so much dissatisfaction that some 23 have been re-employed for a few weeks longer. It will be remembered that the government took hold of the printing to save money to the country, but so far it has cost considerably more than that paid to the contractors. What is perhaps worse the work is inferior.

Mr. Laurier's tour through Ontario was very successful. In addition to the Toronto demonstration large meetings were held in Hamilton and St. Catherines. The more Mr. Laurier is known in Ontario, the more popular he becomes.

Some comment has been made at the absence of Mr. Blake from recent Liberal meetings. This is due to the advice of his physicians. He attended some of the social meetings in Toronto during Mr. Laurier's visit.

Hon. Mr. Bowell, who has returned from a trip to Manitoba and the Northwest, says that police patrol on the boundary has been so effective in stopping smuggling that he has abandoned the idea of placing customs posts there.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney is delighted with his trip to the coast. SLABTOWN.

NEW WESTMINSTER SHOW.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR.—Please allow me through your columns to express my idea in reference to the New Westminster show, I being an exhibitor of a valuable miscellaneous stock. To-day it was stated to me that I had been awarded a second class diploma on sewing machines. If so, I should like very much to know who had taken the first class diploma, and on what grounds was it awarded. I went there prepared for any opponent and generally come out victorious, but I cannot expect this at all times, when away from home under certain conditions. But I deny that during the show or at any time was I asked by any judge any questions in reference to sewing machines, knitting machines, organs or pianos, or anything I exhibited. I have always taken an interest in shows in this province, and placed my goods at considerable expense and risk for competition, so that their merits might be judged by honorable men. I again say that if any diplomas or any distinction was made, it was made without my knowledge. At the Victoria show last year the judges demanded that the operators of their respective machines be present to assist the judges in explaining their excelling points, etc., and a prize was awarded accordingly. It says but little for New Westminster, if they can only find judges of sufficient mental capacity to only judge beets and cabbages.

THOS. W. FLETCHER.

POLICE COURT.

[Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.]

A venerable looking drunk named Jack Hayes was sent up for a month.

Charles Cole, a notorious all round hard case, was sent up for a month for his misdeeds. His baby eyes drooped mournfully when he became aware that a month's hard labor was in store for him.

John Lethbridge, charged with beating his way from Vancouver on the steamer Islander. The accused is a man whose general appearance betokens a late very liberal indulgence in whiskey. It was shown in the evidence that when Purser Smith asked for his fare that Lethbridge had replied that he had neither ticket nor money, but that his name was "Harry the Brat." Mr. Smith did not consider that the name entitled the bearer to a free pass, so gave him in charge of the police on arrival here. The accused pleaded to his honor that he got aboard the boat by mistake. A fine of $5 and costs imposed.

Crokers Not Wanted.

This province has no use for chronic grumblers. It may well be asked if any country has any use for people of that kind, but we don't discuss that large question at present. The fact now under consideration is, that British Columbia has no place for whiners. We need cheerful, hopeful, enterprising, progressive men. If any man in this province thinks this is not a fit place for him to live, the sooner he leaves this part of the Pacific coast the better. His absence would be good company. Grumbling is contagious. One industrious whiner can give blues to half a dozen cheerful men. That is one reason why we want no grumblers here. If any man is not reasonably satisfied with British Columbia after giving it a fair trial, let him go. There is no use in staying here to grumble.—"Pacific", in the Vancouver World.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES

Eight Hours a Day—A Labor Congress Considering that Proposition.

Fresh Developments in the Cronin Case—Emerson's Grave Disturbed.

New York, Oct. 14.—John L. Sullivan is reported to have squandered the $20,000 which he received as his reward for his victory over Kilrain, and it is also said he is $15,000 in debt.

GHOULS AT WORK.

Concord, Mass., Oct. 14.—It was discovered yesterday that during Saturday night the grave of Ralph Waldo Emerson, in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery here, had been opened, exposing the casket. Whether or not the remains were removed is not known, as the authorities before making an examination are awaiting the arrival of Dr. Edward Emerson, who has been telegraphed for and is expected to-day. The general opinion is that the miscreants secured at least the skull, which was probably what they were after. Great excitement and indignation prevails here.

Concord, Mass., Oct. 14.—Mr. Fenar, undertaker, is authority for the statement that the Emerson casket was not opened. Vandals uncovered it, but were evidently frightened away before they could accomplish their purpose.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Bucyrus, Ohio, Oct. 14.—John Howard, engineer, and Frank Raiser and Edward Heinlon were instantly killed this morning at Hynlon's sorghum mills by a bursting boiler. Cold water was pumped into the boiler by mistake.

TO SWING.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 14.—John Weile, alias John Greenwall, who was twice convicted for the murder of Lyman N. Weeks, was to-day sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 6th.

THE EXPOSITION.

New York, Oct. 14.—William L. Page, a California newspaper man, who has just returned from a trip abroad, in speaking last night of the Paris exposition, said: "The American exhibit was considered a very small affair, comparatively; yet many of the displays were awarded grand prizes. The adroit Frenchmen made very slight distinctions between exhibits for degrees of merit. Thus we find that all the type writing machines received gold medals, as did all the fire arm manufacturers and boot and shoe men, hatters, schools, etc. A school at Coldwater, Michigan, received a gold medal, and other schools from the east and west received no higher awards, although they were greatly superior."

A LOAN RISING IN VALUE.

New York, Oct. 14.—Dow, Jones & Company issue the following from Montreal: Baring Brothers report that their new Canadian Pacific 4 per cent. loan, issued at 90, is now selling at 91½.

THE CRUISER SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—It is expected that the United States cruiser San Francisco will be launched on or about the 26th inst.

NEW YORK PRESSMEN ORGANIZE.

New York, Oct. 14.—The international Adams and Cylinder Pressmen's Union closed the work of organizing yesterday. The step taken is one which the pressmen of the United States and Canada have contemplated for a long time, and gives an organization distinct from the typographical unions. The new union starts off with 1000 members.

FOR BEATING HIS WIFE.

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—At Middleburg, Carroll Co., last evening Wm. Elbert was flogged by "White Caps" for beating his young wife.

EARTHQUAKE.

New York, Oct. 14.—Central and South American mails were received to-day as follows: There was a heavy shock of earthquake at San Jose, Costa Rica, on September 28th.

INJUNCTED.

New York, Oct. 14.—Electric power company to Mount Morris this morning obtained an injunction restricting Mayor Grant and the board of electrical contractors from cutting their wires.

EDISON'S VIEWS.

Orange, N. J., Oct. 14.—In an interview to-day, Edison said, "There is no such thing as insulation in enormously high currents. The cable companies use only about 40 volts, being afraid of injuring the insulation by increasing the pressure. A cat can be killed by 220 volts alterating current and with five volts I can throw a man into convulsions. The authorities will have to adopt similar rules to those governing gas and steam companies. There is a law against the manufacture of nitro-glycerine, let there be one against deadly currents."

THE U. S. SUPREME COURT.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The October term of the Supreme Court of the United States opened to-day at noon. All the Justices were present. Proceedings to-day were very brief. The Chief Justice merely announced the opening of the fall term of court and stated that the court to-morrow would proceed with the docket. It then adjourned and the Justices made their customary annual visit to the Executive mansion to pay their respects to the President. The term opens with a crowded docket of about 1575 cases, fully 100 more than last year.

A DAY OF EIGHT HOURS.

A Conference To Bring It About Held To-Day.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—A conference between the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which embraces all powerful trades unions, on one hand, and General Master Workman Powderly, with his executive board representing the Knights on the other, to discuss and perfect plans for the general introduction of eight hours work a day on May first next, is being held here to-day.

THE CRONIN CASE.

Arrest of Jury Bribers in Chicago To-Day.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—An extra issued at one o'clock p. m., says the mysterious prisoner arrested last night by Captain Schuler, and brought to Chicago avenue station with his face muffled in a handkerchief so as to conceal his identity, is John Graham, a lawyer who has an office in the same room with A. L. Strode. Whether Graham has confessed and acknowledged his connection with the jury bribery is not yet known except to the State Attorney.

Judge Longnecker accompanied the grand jury to their room and this afternoon the indictment will be returned against Graham and also two additional indictments against twenty of the men already in jail. More evidence is being accumulated and the probabilities are Graham's backer and employer in the conspiracy will be arrested before night. The whole scheme is on the point of complete exposure and startling developments are looked for. Jerry O'Connell, charged with complicity in the jury bribing case, this morning gave bail in $5000.

TRUE BILL.

At two o'clock the grand jury returned an indictment against John Graham as well as a true bill against six men indicted on Saturday. Another startling rumor is to the effect that John F. Beggs has made a full confession which had disclosed the jury bribing that in all its details.

THOSE DEADLY WIRES.

Mayor Grant's Resolution Defeated by the Committee.

New York, Oct. 14.—At to-day's meeting of the board of electrical controllers, Mayor Grant offered a resolution reciting that the number of deaths that had been caused by electric light wires and power wires furnished ample proof that such wires were not being put underground fast enough to ensure the safety of lives of the people, and that in view of the imperative demand for great subway facilities, the board determined that the contract be made with the Electrical Subway Construction Company on April, 1887, now in operation is ineffectual for accomplishment of its just purposes.

Mr. Lauterbeck, counsel for the subway people, tried to convince the Mayor that his company had done all it could to comply with the orders of the board. The mayor said, I don't concede that the company has made promises that it has not performed. The board disagrees with that resolution, and the resolution rests with them. The mayor said he was going to use all his influence to put the wires under ground, no matter whose interests suffered or what other members of the board thought. "I propose," said he, "to give the companies all the facilities I can for conducting their business, but the wires have to go underground. I insist on putting my resolution." The resolution was put and all the commissioners voted against it, and it was lost.

ANOTHER ELECTRICAL EFFORT

Clocks Which Will be Run by Electricity.

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—What is claimed to be a revolution in the system of transmitting time from a central point, is soon to be inaugurated by the W. U. Telegraph company. The idea is a transmit daily, or as many times a day as required, the correct time of each individual clock under the jurisdiction system. The clocks are also self-winding, that is from year's end to year's end no hand need touch them, the whole machinery being run by the telegraph wires. The first week or so the wires are to be connected with the government service at Marysville. In a few weeks, however, the clock tick observatory will be synchronized with all the other clock system. For ordinary business purposes this will be done at 11.55 o'clock each day, and for which purpose the telegraph company will close their lines to the public for ten minutes. For special purposes, as jewelers, railroads and others, clocks can be synchronized every fifteen or thirty minutes. During the period of synchronizing, the standard clock of the observatory will take possession of the wires and temporarily control all clocks connected with it, securing an absolutely uniform time throughout the entire system. It is intended to use the system all over the state. To inaugurate the system, Superintendent Jaynes says it will cost about $4000. It is proposed to make the charges $1 per month for service. The omnibus, cable and railway company is having clocks placed throughout its offices, and the Southern Pacific company is investigating the matter with a view to using them over its entire system.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

A President who Supports His Club—Baseball in England.

The Victoria Athletic Club will commence practice this week for an exhibition to be given in about six weeks.

The Watson-Peck race will take place at Nanaimo next Saturday.

LACROSSE.

Mr. A. C. Flummerfelt, the popular president of the Victoria Lacrosse Club, has presented the team with a supply of lacrosse sticks for next season's playing. The sticks are of the finest material, and are only a sample of this gentleman's generosity in supporting the club. The members each and all appreciate this kindness.

BASEBALL.

A meeting of gentlemen interested in the promotion of baseball in England was held last week at the Criterion, when an organization to be known as the National Baseball League of Great Britain, was formed. A council of administration was formed which have taken rooms at Holborn Viaduct, and will organize a vigorous campaign to make baseball one of the prominent field sports of Great Britain.

VANCOUVER ISLAND.

Written for THE TIMES.]

Whence comest thou? Star of the ocean,
Encompassed by sentinel grand;
And loved by the Pacific fountain,
Subdued by God's word of command.
Begirt by the strength of the mountains,
And soothed by the murmuring sea.
And fanned by the wandering zephyr,
What more could be lavished on thee.
That peace might encircle thy borders
And plenty within thee abound,
And nothing to harm or affright us
Within thy blest limits be found.

O! beautiful, wonderful island!
What wonder that many about it roam
From Island and continent distant
To find in thy bloom a home;
Where beauty and grandeur combining
With all that is useful to man,
Display such a harvest for reaping
In every department and plan.
And bright as a gem in the casket
Of roses, our city the queen
Victoria securely reposes,
To welcome the wanderers in.

Where flourish the arts of all nations,
And wealth beyond counting is stored,
With neither a silver nor brazen
To covet the glittering hoard.
Here sealers from perilous conflict,
Return with warm garments to fold,
The beautiful forms of thy daughters,
Secured from the dampness and cold.
Thy beautiful daughters, God spare them!
From quitting this ravishing scene,
Where only the breat of a winter
Has ever been heard of or seen.

The sailor, scourge of the ocean,
The noble, the gallant and strong,
Now coming with gold and with silver
To wives who have waited them long
Glad news! heart-stirring news of hard labor,
No matter how far they may roam,
Love birds with unwavering fondness,
When such in their nests come home.
Where love without stint is imparting
The means she knows to provide,
And spread in such cunning confusion,
As grapples her sons to her side.

O! beautiful, wonderful island,
No artist can ever divine,
The depth of the infinite wisdom,
That threw up thy matchless design,
And painted each trembling blossom,
And garnished each clustering vine,
And spread out your fadeless artistics,
And tassled your towering pine;
D'fused over mountain and valley
Gay homes of they gambling herds,
With flourishing fortune peerless,
To shelter the carolling birds.
That frolic amid the aroma;
And bloom of this garden so fair,
Where hothy and rose, broom and ivy
Abound without culture or care.

O! beautiful, wonderful island,
How poor is all language at best,
To tell of thy many enchantments
Inviting the weary to rest,
Surrounded by droppings of nature,
Arranged by Divinity's hand,
In grandeur and beauty surprising
The tourists of every land.
And blind must they be or demented,
Who freely may wander abroad,
Amid thy bewildering splendor
Afar from the Kingdom of God.

EVENTS IN EUROPE.

Another Australian Sculler to the Front—Matterson Defeats Bubear.

The Earl is Acquitted—Three Thousand Five Hundred Miners on Strike.

London, Oct. 14.—The trial of the Earl of Galloway, under an indictment for a series of assaults upon girls of tender years, began at Dumfries to-day. The court room was packed with notable persons. The prosecution was conducted by the Lord Advocate in person, and six counsels headed by John Blair. Balfour, Q. C., appeared for the defence. The indictment upon which the Earl is on trial to-day is for indecently placing his hand upon a little girl of ten years named Gibbon. The child testified to the assault as charged in the indictment and the testimony was corroborated by other witnesses. From a statement of the Earl of Galloway read by his counsel, the deponent declared he had merely assisted the child to alight from a wall, and in doing so his hand had slipped under her clothes.

The trial of the Earl of Galloway at Dumfries on a charge of criminally assaulting young girls, ended in a verdict of acquittal.

CANADIAN PACIFIC AND JAY GOULD.

London, Oct. 14.—The stock exchange people discredit the story that Jay Gould is buying Canadian Pacific. It is believed that the transactions are fixed up to prepare the way for the proposed steamship loan.

CRANBROOK WILL RETIRE.

London, Oct. 14.—Viscount Cranbrock, lord president of the privy council, is about to retire from the cabinet, owing to ill health.

MATTERSON WINS.

London, Oct. 14.—The three-mile sculling race between Matterson and Bubear over the Thames course to-day was won by Matterson. Matterson led from the start and finished eight lengths ahead.

FELL THROUGH.

London, Oct. 14.—The Paris correspondent of the Times asserts he has discovered on trustworthy authority that the visit of Prince Ferdinand to Munich was undertaken on the suggestion of Bismarck, who wanted to present him to the Czar. The project fell through because the Czar was unwilling to receive the prince.

BIG STRIKE.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Three thousand five hundred miners have struck at Men's department of Pas de Calais.

SETTLING WITH THE JESUITS.

How the Quebec Money Grant is Divided.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—D. A. Ross, acting minister of public works of the province of Quebec, said yesterday that the time for settling the payments to be made under the Jesuit act is close at hand. Only $160,000 is to go to the Jesuits, the remaining $240,000 is taken by the Protestant grant of public education to go to the Roman Catholic bishops to be divided by them for educational purposes. "The Jesuits," said Mr. Ross, "are not at all pleased. They wanted $1,000,000. They had to be incorporated before they could get this money, and it is not generally known that Cardinal Taschereau was bitterly opposed to their being incorporated, and did all in his power to frustrate their efforts in that direction. The Jesuits were looked upon as a foreign body and the cardinal wanted to support the Catholic University of Laval. The bill was carried, however, in the legislature, as the Jesuits commanded sufficient influence there to overcome the cardinal's opposition."

A NOVEL APPLIANCE.

Drop a Nickle in the Slot for Postage Stamps.

London, Oct. 14.—The Postmaster-General has decided to give a trial to the new automatic "nickel in the slot" distributor of stamps, and four hundred are to be attached at once to the street letter boxes in different parts of the metropolis. The machines have two slots, which deal out penny and half-penny stamps upon the necessary coin being inserted, while the machinery is so adjusted that it is impossible to cheat the department by inserting other articles in lieu of the necessary coin. The new device will be a boon to tens of thousands of people that live remote from the sub-postoffices, and will be hailed with delight by the drug store clerks, who get plenty of annoyance instead of commission for keeping stamps in stock.

WHY NOT BRITISH COLUMBIA?

"The future of the new state of Washington lies in China, Japan and Corea," says a writer in the Oregonian. "The newest civilization in the world gazes across the Pacific into the face of the oldest, and offers its trade for the riches of an empire. The Asiatic coast imports yearly $300,000,000 of goods, and the greater part of this trade is now absorbed by England. But natural laws will make this traffic drift to the Pacific Coast. The saving distance alone is in favor of America. Asiatics buy canned goods, cheap cotton, flour, meat, lumber, agricultural implements and other mechanical devices. These are things in which America defies competition, and these are things that Tacoma and Seattle expect to send across the Pacific. It is a tremendous bid that this new state is making for a market, which not England alone, but all Europe will struggle against the losing. The richness of the prize may involve unimagined complications, not only with Europe but with Asia. In truth, there seems to be more future history of international concern wrapped up in the confines of Puget Sound than any one dare guess at."

The foregoing remarks are as applicable to British Columbia as they are to Washington. All that is possible of Washington is possible of British Columbia. Washington may have the advantage of this province as a wheat growing section, but in no other respect. We have lumber and fisheries, coal, and gold and silver. Our stock raising possibilities are something immense, while if Washington can raise fruit so can we. If Washington can sell canned meat and canned fruit, why not British Columbia? It is simply a question of enterprise and industry. The Pacific states are paving the way to the cultivation of farm products on a vast scale, by the agitation of comprehensive schemes of irrigation. We have got to do the same. As in the States this will be largely a government measure; so must it be here. Had the transcontinental railway scheme been compelled to await the action of private enterprise probably not more than one railway would now be spanning the continent. The outlay involved is too big for private capital. The same is true of irrigation; the outlay is too vast. And especially, if British Columbia would keep pace with her southern neighbor, must irrigation be the protege of the government. Our capitalists are too few. It is not impossible that wealthy syndicates in the States will undertake the reclamation of Washington, Oregon and Idaho at an early date. There is plenty of capital in the States this moment, more than anxious to engage in any scheme which promises an ordinary rate of interest on investment. We are not so well supplied in this respect, and so any enterprise requiring a vast outlay of capital must have the endorsement of the government. But what is the prospect? Fall has come, another year will soon have passed, and how much farther are we ahead than a year ago. Not an iota. If we know anything more of the mineral and agricultural possibilities of the province than we did a year ago will somebody please point it out. We have raised a great hullabaloo about the touching of the Chinese steamers, but nobody has raised the question of irrigation or trade with Kootenay. The very moment the question of internal development is raised a protest goes up. We understand that this session of Parliament will be an extremely active one. In what or whose interest will all this activity be? If we are to judge the future by the past, all the legislation which transpires this coming winter will be distinguished by a lofty disregard of all interests other than private and corporate. No man need hesitate to prophesy considering the impenetrable mystery which surrounds the legislation to come that there is a job on hand of more than ordinary dimensions.

IS THERE ANYTHING IN IT?

Speaking of the obstinacy with which the English cling to old customs, preferring to go round the field to cutting across it when the latter course would serve the purpose just as well and better, one of the HERSHELL's has remarked: "Yes, the English cling to their customs but they are not cemented to them." This remark is suggestive of the slowness with which the English mind reconciles itself to reform, and it leads us to ask if this peculiarly English trait is not the stumbling block to Irish home rule? To the ordinary observer, that is to say, the man who is neutral on English politics, home rule presents itself from two points of view, namely, why should it be granted, and why should it not be granted? We can understand why Canada should have home rule, because she is isolated, and in respect to her internal affairs legislation must harmonize. But Ireland is contiguous to England. She is scarcely more isolated from England than is Vancouver island from the mainland, and under the circumstances it would be inferred that the respective interests of Ireland and England would be so nearly identical that what was good government for the latter would be good for the former. That such is the case, however, is notoriously untrue. Ireland is not as prosperous as England, and the question presents itself, is it owing to English rule, or Irish improvidence? It looks as if English rule was largely responsible for thriftlessness in Ireland, and for two reasons. First, the Irish are prosperous in Canada and the United States, and secondly, no English colony for any lengthened period has never tolerated the rule of the mother country. We were told the other day by a loyal subject of the Queen, that the mayor of a certain Scotch city is compelled to spend half his time in London in the interest of his municipality. Parliament, besides undertaking to regulate national and international affairs, must need poke its nose into the affairs of municipalities. Our authority further stated as a matter of personal experience, that having an interest in a certain business in which it was found expedient for the company to make its own illuminant —gas—the furnished article being of an inferior quality, it was necessary to petition parliament for the right to do so; that it cost over $7000 to make the application, and that Parliament refused the grant. Our informant further said that Parliament exercised a jurisdiction over Ireland just as rigid and just as ridiculous. Conceive the absurdity of the city of Victoria petitioning Ottawa for the right to dig a sewer or lay a street railway, and you get an idea of parliamentary paternalism as exercised in England. Everybody has heard the expression "as big a fool as THOMPSONS' colt" although if not we will explain that THOMPSONS' colt swam the Thompson river at high water to get to drink out of a spring. The colt's partiality to spring water is scarcely more absurd than Parliament's superserviceable paternalism, and the wonder is that the English men who think they know their own business should consent to permit their private affairs to be a subject to public debate and dependent on parliamentary caprice or parliamentary prejudice. We have always thought that CARLYLE strained a point when he said that England was composed of 30,000,000 of people, mostly fools, but if he had in mind Parliament's uncompromising mossbackry, he certainly came dangerously near telling the truth. NO wonder BURNS was not appreciated, and no wonder THACKERAY and DICKENS flayed English foibles.

BRITISH COTTON TRADE.

The British Trade Journal furnishes some interesting comparisons of the relative proportions of the British and American cotton export trade, and is surprised that though America produces the raw cotton, has plenty of cheap fuel, and a people "proverbial for their ingenuity," its progress is so small, when compared with the volume of British trade as to render it hardly worth mentioning. Illustrating its point, the Journal furnishes figures of exports of cotton piece goods. The exports from Great Britain foot up the enormous figure of 4,850,030,200 and those from the United States 193,811,853. China buys six times as much British as American cloth, the West Indies seven times as much, and Mexico takes two yards for every one of American manufacture. It has been often said that the American cotton has built Manchester and Oldham. The profits made by English cotton spinners in the past have been proverbially large. Liverpool generally makes the price for the world's cotton. Not only is competition in the world's markets denied the United States but they also import $30,000,000 of cotton manufactures, the bulk of which comes from Great Britain, and it is safe to say, chiefly made from American grown cotton. The cause of this peculiar condition of affairs, remarks an American paper, merits an investigation. It is hard to see why an investigation is required to throw any light on this question. The secret of the thing lies in the rapid increase of population in the United States. The home market has been a good one, equal almost to the supply. When the United States and Canada shall cease to acquire population by other means than the increase by birth, which will have the effect to lessen home demand, the American manufacturers will be compelled to seek foreign trade, and as it is perfectly clear that they can manufacture as cheaply as English the competition which will ensue will be something terrific. We mention these things, not in an invidious sense, but as showing a condition of things which another century will bring forth, and as raising the question of the effect on England when not alone the United States, but Canada, shall undertake to compete with the mother country for the markets of the world.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Quebec bride has brought suit against her husband for marrying her under false pretenses simply because he told her his salary was $25 per week, when it was nothing like that sum. The few means a young man used to have of winning his case are being gradually taken away.

The Canadian Gazette (London, Eng.) says: "Mr. EDWARD ALLEN, who claims to be the oldest and most consistent supporter of the present administration now in the House, (British Columbia) will insist upon a recognition of his claims for the position of Speaker. It is reported also that Mr. HUNTER will claim the appointment." NED's fame, apparently, is not confined to the province.

The Mexican government is doing everything possible to encourage rubber tree culture, paying 3 cents per tree planted, and permitting the free entrance of all needed machinery and appliances. The concessionaires must plant 1,000,000 till 15,000,000 are planted. A company with a capital of $1,000,000 is to be organized to carry this concession into effect. Six years are required for the rubber tree to come to maturity, after which the yield of rubber is steady.

Coincidences are not uncommon, but if the alleged similarity between Miss WINTHROP's "Wilfred" and Mrs. BURNETT's "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is a coincidence, we have a wonderful exemplification of twin ideas. Miss WINTHROP submitted to RANDOLPH & Co., publishers, the MSS. of "Wilfred," requesting them to give it a reading, and if meritorious to publish it. The publishers read the MSS. and purchased it outright, and published the book soon afterward. In the meantime Miss WINTHROP had submitted her story to Mrs. BURNETT for her opinion and advice. What Mrs. BURNETT's opinion and advice was, we are not informed, but five years later "Little Lord Fauntleroy" was published. The astonishing similarity between "Wilfred" and Mrs. BURNETT's now famous production surprised Miss WINTHROP, who consulted her publishers as to what she had better do about it. They advised her to let the matter drop. It is not improbable that Mrs. BURNETT may have taken her inspiration of "Fauntleroy" from "Wilfred," and it is not unlikely that "Fauntleroy" has its resemblance, but the fact that "Wilfred" seems to have fallen into desuetude while "Fauntleroy" has become world wide shows pretty conclusively which of the two authoresses possesses genius. The plots of SHAKESPEARE'S plays were not original with him. He borrowed the ground work of his productions indiscriminately, but he clothed his subjects with the mantles of his own genius. It may be surmised that when Mrs. BURNETT speaks the author of "Wilfred" will fade away as the morning flower.

AN ADVENTURE IN CARIBOO.

Montreal Witness' Prize Story for British Columbia.

It was in the autumn of the year 18[illegible] About one hundred men were mining on the Quesnelle Lake, in the corner of Cariboo, which, in 1854, turned out tons of gold, worth about four million dollars. But this was the maximum, and year after year the quantity diminished, so the miners struck further inland into more difficult places. They had seen the surface of the bed-rock strewn with gold mixed with dirt, like the grains of wheat mixed with chaff at the tail of a fanning mill. Now they dreamed that, farther in the hills and nearer the sources of the rivers, they would discover the harvest fields of gold ripe for picking. But as the autumn of this year came on many of the miners got away from the camps at the head of these lakes, and it was felt that if, when all hands met in winter quarters at Yale, the reports from Bone Lake, Bonaparte, Chiscoosie, or the North Thompson rivers, told of rich strikes that the workings on the Horsefly would never have the water baled out of them; and with this prospect in view the shopkeepers let their stock run down. Mat Simons held an auction, and sold his watches as low as seventy dollars, and oil-cloth suits for three ounces of gold dust. Then he packed his needles and thread over to Skookumchunk Creek, where he explained to Black Bear, the chief, that the man who made needles was dead and then sold the balance of his stock, twenty-seven needles, for a dollar and a half apiece, and thread for a dollar and a half a spool, after which he parted with his pipe, a red sash, and four buttons from his vest for three strips of dried venison, and then struck the main trail for home. Mat had seen a good many camps, and the sacrifice of his stock and desertion of the Horsefly discouraged the boys. Beer and whisky went down to a dollar a drink, or twenty drinks for an ounce of gold dust, and Johnson, who dealt in heavy supplies, put out a shingle offering bacon, butter, tobacco, tea, and sugar at a dollar per pound, and flour, salt, beans, and dried apples, for seventy-five cents.

It was expected that Antoine Mileto, the Italian freighter, would bring in another load of supplies, but the weather got very wet and he turned out his six mules to grass, and lived mostly on fish which he caught in the lakes.

The men were loth to quit the mines, especially as they did not know whether they would be back to the same diggings next year, so they stayed on till the rains got colder and the snow line crept down the mountain side. They all said "the fall was early, but there would be fine weather yet, and any time before Christmas was all right to get home." The 28th of November was a cold, rainy day, and trees on the mountains were covered with snow. During the night the wind blew in gusts, and the miners in their cabins had to bury their heads under the blankets for shelter from the snow, which drifted through the roofs, and in the morning many a man went kicking around to find a shovel with which to shovel the snow from the fireplace so as to build a fire. It was bitterly cold—twenty below zero—and every man knew it was time to start. About thirty-five, under the leadership of Donald McArthur, started that day. The rest waited till the day after. Some made huge packs of clothing and food; others took but little.

McArthur was from one of the eastern provinces. He had come to California in 1850, and was at one time worth a great deal of money. He now led the procession, broke the track, and built the fires. In two and a half days he was at the Forks, where an old man named Hatch lived, with every one of the thirty-five men that had started with him. Hatch was gone, his cabin left empty and desolate. Hauled up in an obscure spot was a large scow, with a mast in it like a sloop, a craft which McArthur had used while freighting on the river. It was seventy miles to Quesnelle Mouth, where there was a town. But no shelter was nearer. There were rapids dangerous for a deeply laden boat, wide places where the scow must be rowed, and shoals where she would go aground; but, thankful that they would not have to tramp through the snow, they crowded on board.

The weather was very cold and the scow leaked, but hour after hour McArthur kept his place at the steering oar. He was first to take an oar when more head way was needed, and first to jump overboard and lift, when the scow ran hopelessly aground. At four o'clock the third day the scow ran into the landing at Quesnellemouth. Here they were told that all the miners were in except those on the Horsefly diggings. McArthur knew that there was no food at any place on the road, and so boat but the one he had come in. "Those men will never get in," he said; "we must send them food."

The food was freely given, but who was to take it? Six Siwashes were willing to go for large pay, but no white man volunteered to accompany them.

"I am as old a man as there is among you," said McArthur, "but a blue-nose never turned his back on a blizzard."

So next morning he with his Siwashes started off. At noon next day they found seventy men encamped by the road, tired and famished. These were given provisions enough to last them until they got home, and McArthur and his men pushed on again. In some places the road was full of water and they got soaking wet, but went on till dark. When they stopped for the night McArthur made a fire, and on taking off his shoes and stockings found his feet were badly frozen. But he drew the frost out with snow, got bandages and salve from his pack, and dressed them, again prepared for the night's campaign.

The temperature had fallen, it seemed to him one hundred and sixty degrees below zero. The Indians, overcome with weariness, squatted around the fire and would not lift a hand to get a stick of wood for the fire. McArthur worked all night chopping wood, only sitting down a few minutes to rest.

Next day they met Antoine Mileto the Italian. He was almost dead from starvation, so they gave him hot tea and biscuit, which soon brought him round. He said that he had endured it as long as he could, and was looking for a place to lie down and die when they found him. From Antoine's report they knew that the men behind were in a perilous condition, but hoped they had reached Woodchunk creek before this, and McArthur resolved to reach that point before night. They found no one there, and had been camped but two hours when the heard the report of a rifle, and on going to the spot found a camp of thirty-five men. The shot had been fired at what they thought was a lynx, the track of one having been found that morning. When the news came that food was near, the camp broke up in disorder. Four or five of the men were badly frozen but they declined to wait till food was brought them, and ran with the rest to McArthur's camp.

By the time this large gang was fed and supplied with rations, there was very little left, but McArthur would not turn back as there were five more men to send relief to yet. He went on another day, then leaving a pole across the road with a bag of half the provisions he had left hung on it, and a note requesting "those who found it to leave half, unless they knew themselves to be the last on the road," he and his Siwashes started for home.

They divided their remaining stock of food between them, one biscuit and a slice of bacon to each man.

At dusk they arrived at the Big Coolie Bridge, twelve miles from the town. McArthur was suffering terribly with his feet, and Big Philip suggested that they should strike down the river to where his father was camping. Two miles around the bluff brought them to the place, but Philip's father had not a particle of food, as the storm had swept away his nets and the river was frozen over. The women and children hailed McArthur with demonstrations of joy, thinking he would be able to supply all their wants, and received the biscuit he gave them as a gift from heaven. The old man held family worship, and prayed in Chinook for blessings on the person, family and people of the King George man who had come to their relief, ending with the version of the Lord's Prayer taught them by the Episcopal missionaries. Translated it read:

Our father who stayeth in the above,
Good is our heart's the name.
Good than chief among all people.
Good thy will upon earth as in the above;
Give every day our food.
If we do ill (he) then not very angry.
And if any one do evil toward us
Not we angry towards them
Send far away from us all evil.

McArthur and his men had a good night's rest at least, and the next day at noon they were safe in the Can-Can saloon at Quesnelle Mouth. McArthur suffered a long time with his feet, which were all he had to show for his share in the adventure.

The five remaining men came in three days after, owning that they owed their lives to the bag of provisions left for them in the road.

Donald McArthur lives in a town on the C. P. R. line, and if any one is willing to fit him out with pack horses, four men and five hundred dollars' worth of grub, he will hydraulick bench which he knows of on the Horsefly. He thinks it carries fine gold.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary nauseous, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

—Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren county, N. Y., writes: "She has been troubled with asthma for four years, had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors."

Pictorial Tourist Guide.

The Pictorial Tourists' Guide and Hand Book of British Columbia and the shores of the Northern Pacific and Alaska waters, shortly to be published, will treat of the natural scenic beauty of the province, devoting a large space to Victoria as a tourist resort. It will deal with the great natural resources of the country, and the chances offered to the capitalist or those desirous of founding homes in this favored land. The projectors intend entering into arrangements with some of the leading tourist agencies in Europe for the organization of excursion parties, and will leave no stone unturned to bring the unrivalled advantages of the country before the public in the older lands. The scheme is a well devised plan for the advertisement of Victoria and its attractions. It is understood that sixty odd views of British Columbia scenery will adorn the work. Application for copyright has been made to Ottawa.

Vancouver Police Muddle.

The case for the prosecution against the Chief and other members of the Vancouver police force was finished on Saturday afternoon. Forty-five charges in all were preferred. The case for the defence was gone on with to-day.

Think She's Fast.

When Capt. Dunn left in the Titania for England, he said he would race the Lebu against time granting her ten days. He remarked at the time that he would give more to the other ships, consequently he must consider the Lebu a fast vessel.

Law Society.

At a meeting of benchers, recently held, R. E. Jackson, Esq., and Thornton Fell, Esq., were elected benchers in place of Mr. Justice Drake, raised to the Bench, and Theodore Davie, Esq., now Attorney General. Hon. A. N. Richards was appointed treasurer of the society.

After Coal Lands.

Several capitalists at present in the city, this morning caused to bond from a local syndicate a tract of 4000 acres on Denman Island supposed to contain coal. The land was originally obtained for $1 per acre, and the offer to-day was to give a bonus of $2,500 and to bond it at $10 per acre. The offer was taken under consideration.

Rich Furnishings.

Mr. Sam Gray is turning out at his factory the panelling and wainscoating for the Dunsmuir mansion. The wood used is of the choicest quality, being ash, tulip, mahogany, oak, white holly and several other imported kinds. The polishing will be done by workmen specially imported for the purpose. Mr. Gray's contract runs up to $6000.

A Curiosity.

"The sun shone forth for the first time this morning for some days past, but was soon hidden by the clouds again." The foregoing appeared in the Vancouver World of Saturday. Evidently the regular weather is beginning to make itself felt there, when a glimpse of the sun seems such a curiosity that it must receive an item in the press.

For the Asylum.

The young man, Cutler, who has been confined for several weeks in the gaol, Topaz avenue, suffering from religious mania, was taken up to New Westminster asylum on Sunday morning. The man Lawson, who is also insane, supposed to be caused by a kick in the back of the head by a horse, also went up in company with Cutler. An unknown insane man is still confined in the gaol.

Canadian Schooners.

The four sealing schooners moored in James Bay near the custom house are the finest specimens of their class on this coast. Two of them the C. H. Tupper and the Triumph, were built for the government for use as cruisers during the late fishery troubles in the east. The other two, the Sapphire and Maggie Mc, are typical Nova Scotia fishing schooners and are conceded by all to be better models and finer looking craft than the cruisers. The whole four are in first rate order, and strangers visiting the city often speak of their neat appearance and clipper like looks.

Criminal Carelessness.

The other day two young men and a Winchester rifle were in a boat just above Point Ellice bridge. There would have been no harm in this, but the young men commenced to fire off the rifle with the result that one of the bullets lodged in the verandah post of a residence. At the same instant a resident of the house was standing within a few feet of the post, and was naturally startled. Should these promiscuous shootists come into the hands of the police a heavy fine will doubtless be the result. A serious case of this sort occurred in Vancouver a few days ago where a white man was struck in the arm by a stray bullet.

New Time Table.

A new time table takes effect on the E. & N. railway to-morrow. The north bound train will leave Victoria at 8:40 a.m., arriving at Wellington at 1:04 p.m., and the train for the south will leave Wellington at 9 a.m., arriving at Victoria at 1:24 p.m. The second train on Saturday will leave Victoria at 2:30 p.m., arriving at Wellington at 6:29 p.m.; coming south, will leave Wellington at 1:59, arriving at Victoria at 5:58 p.m. On Saturdays and Sundays return tickets will be issued between all points for single fare, good to return on Monday. Return tickets can be purchased any day at one and one-third fare. Through rates given to Comox.

A Victim of Dynamite.

A cripple who was begging from house to house this morning, was taken to the cells this morning by one of the city police, when it was found that he was a man named Dubais, one of the victims of the dynamite fiend of Gilman, Wash. It will be remembered that last winter a Belgian miner at that place blew up the house of an enemy with dynamite, killing three people and wounding others. The dynamiter was lynched by the citizens the day after the crime. Dubais was one of the injured, his little girl being killed and his wife very seriously hurt. Since then he has been living on charity. Mayor Grant gave the poor fellow a permit to-day to solicit alms.

Surveyors' Troubles.

The Nelson correspondent of the Sentinel says that two tough looking men arrived at Nelson the other day in a canoe, which to the surprise of the natives was made of birch bark. The men were the Stewart Bros., C. P. R. engineers. The birch bark canoe was sent from Winnipeg in knockdown for their use. They had navigated it down the Columbia to Arrow lake, up the nameless stream which comes into the North Arm, through to Trout lake and down the Lardeau to the north end of Kootenay lake. The trip included a portage of 15 miles, and an upset involving the loss of their entire outfit. After a very brief rest they pushed on to the Columbia to explore other places.

Information Wanted.

If anybody knows anything as to the fate of Gilbert Gordon Reid he will please communicate with his mother at 35 Princess St., Leith, Scotland. He was last heard of at Victoria, B. C. in January, and was looking for any kind of work he could get. He is the youngest son of the late Wm. Reid, of Granton, N. B., originator of the system for watering and feeding live stock during railway transit. He left Winnipeg for Victoria in Nov., 1884. Could not get any work in New Westminster and his letter from Victoria dated January, 1885, said he was trying to get work on a railway and he had borrowed ten dollars from the St. Andrew's Society, Victoria. If spared he would now be 27 years of age, height 5 ft. 10 in., small dark moustache and minus a front tooth

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

In the Reformed Episcopal Church Yesterday.

Anniversary services were held yesterday in the Reformed Episcopal church both morning and evening.

In the morning the usual form of worship was gone through, with the exception that the Whitfield service was introduced. At the meeting at 7 p. m., after the evening service, a song service took place. Miss Cridge sang "Ever Bright and Fair." This was followed by the beautiful anthem, "Call to Remembrance," Miss Mouatt taking the solo. Rev. Dr. Reid delivered a short address, which was followed by the solo, "Thy King," excellently given by Mr. W. R. Higgins. Miss Mouatt sang "Come Unto Me" beautifully, and Mr. Jenkinson sang "Incline Thy Ear." After prayer Whitfield's beautiful service was introduced and the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were well rendered by the choir.

The offertories at 10 h services were large, being considerably over $400.

Dr. Reid in his address to the congregation referred in feeling terms to the unfortunate accident which had caused the absence of the Right Rev. Bishop Cridge from the anniversary services, and expressed the hope that he would soon be restored to strength.

Reference was also made to the hearty financial assistance afforded the church, this being the only one in the province supported entirely by the voluntary offerings of the people.

CHARGED WITH LIBEL.

Evidence Taken To-Day and the Case Remanded.

David Sims, charged on remand with libel on Hamilton Maffat was taken up in the police court to-day.

Hamilton Maffat was called and swore that the statements contained in the letter were entirely false as far as concerned him.

Geo. Jay was called and deposed that he knew defendant, who had once been in his employ. Considerable trouble had been had with defendant and on the 10th of July the matter ended in a fight. Summonses were taken out and the matter brought before the police magistrate, but the case was dismissed. Some days afterwards witness had asked defendant to hand over certain monies but it had been refused, the refusal being accompanied with most foul and insulting language.

Mr. Pooley, counsel for the prosecution, said he had brought this matter up to show that the letter had been written with malicious intent.

In reply to a question of the counsel for the prosecution, Mr. Jay stated that the letter was a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end, and particularly that part of it which asserted that he, Mr. Jay, had paid Mr. Maffat money as bribes.

In reply to Mr. Walls, counsel for the defence, the witness stated that a suit was pending between the defendant and himself. Defendant had been in witnesses employ since February in 1887; no regular wages had been paid, but defendant had taken what he required for support; he had a half interest in the stock.

Wm. Savory, called, said he recollected the quarrel between defendant and previous witness; it was on the 17th July; that is the same date of the libellous letter; defendant had stated that he wanted to write to Ottawa that Mr. Jay had sold bad seeds to Indians, and had robbed him, defendant, of $300 which had been given to Dr. Powell and Mr. Moffat, and that he, defendant, would "fix him." Defendant was in a bad temper when he said this.

By Mr. Walls—I manufacture cider on the premises of Mr. Jay, but am not in partnership with him; pay rent for the premises by laboring; had been in the employ of Jay; was not on bad terms with defendant.

Mr. Walls said that he should claim that the letter was privileged; also that the publication had not been admitted.

His Honor—Your client admitted it in Mr. Pooley's office.

Mr. Walls maintained that did not constitute an admission and claimed that the law said that any statements made by plaintiff or his agents were privileged.

Mr. Pooley said that the case had been remanded the other day that malice might be proved. He believed it had been proved. It was conclusively proved that the defendant had written the letter.

His Honor said he would defer the matter for a day or two, the defendant to be allowed bail meantime.

A Resident Rabbi.

A meeting of the Jewish residents of the city will be held at the synagogue tomorrow evening for the purpose of considering means for securing a resident rabbi and teacher in this city.

Seeking a Divorce.

Russell H. Cool, an Oakland dentist, who recently spent a few days in this city where he is very well known, is being sued by his wife for a divorce on the ground of brutal treatment. Cool's practice is said to be over $500 per month.

The Voyage Ended.

The funeral of the late Captain J. A. Gardiner took place this afternoon. The service for the dead was performed by The Rev. Dr. Reid. The following were the pall bearers: E. A. McQuade, Henry Waller, Edgar Marvin, Thos. Earle, M. T. Drake and Chas. Lombard.

The Stamford Joint.

The published item in reference to the Stamford joint, to be used in the Johnson street sewer, was not according to the facts. The proportion of ingredients required to make the joint, were furnished by the water engineer, Mr. Summerfield, and not by Mr. Hill.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons gave a beautiful performance in the Victoria theatre on Saturday evening to a fair sized but thoroughly appreciative audience. Her programme was, generally considered, superior to that on the occasion of her first appearance, several of the old favorites which long ago made her a name being given.

Showed Fight.

A shark was killed at Esquimalt on Saturday by J. Potts of that town. He saw the fish which was about nine feet in length, and waded in armed with an axe to attack it. The shark at once made for the man and tried to chew off a leg, but Mr. Potts axed him not to and the body of the voracious fish was dragged ashore dead.

Brutal Treatment.

A woman living in the eastern portion of the city applied to the authorities this morning in reference to her twelve year old son, who has been on the west coast of the Island since last December, and who tells a pitiful tale of inhuman treatment at the hands of white men and Indians. The crime alleged is inhuman, and the parties interested in the youth's welfare have witnesses to substantiate their allegations.

A Serious Matter.

Whatever may be the merits of the Colquitz case against the corporation, it is not within the province of a public journal at this juncture to discuss, being sub judice. But it would seem that the corporation should bring it to a final issue without delay. A feature of the affair is $100 per day demanded by the petitioners since serving of the notification upon the Board of Aldermen. As many weeks have elapsed since then, the bill is climbing towards $10,000. And the petitioners are sanguine of success, both in the suit for $50,000 damages and the daily recompense of $100.

Its Excellent Qualities

Commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.
